Songs and Rhymes

Singing songs and rhymes is the perfect way to bond with your baby and share quality time.

It aids language development by introducing the natural sounds and patterns of speech.

Combining these with actions stimulates the brain and helps muscle development and coordination.

Baby Gym

Illustrated by Sanja Rešček

Touch is a baby's first language...

Designed to stimulate the senses, and based on research into the benefits of baby exercise and massage, these books encourage interaction between parent and baby. Cuddling, exercise, movement and massage strengthen the baby and parent bond, helping to build a sense of security and confidence. Whatever mood you want to create, be it calming or active, these books will provide inspiration.

Tactile Books

Stunning tactile books for ALL children of all ages were conceived and designed in association with BookTrust, and developed in consultation with children, families and organisations working with blind and partially-sighted children. Our unique tactile books seek to include all children in the reading experience. Tactile features, play elements and high-contrast images create as sensory and involved an experience of the topics as possible.

Getting Ready

Illustrated by Cocoretto

Let's get ready! Have you brushed your teeth? What would you like for breakfast? Getting ready is an essential part of every child's life, and this book helps to make this daily routine fun. The interactive elements include a zip fastener, which can be used to develop fine motor skills, a toothbrush with bristles and a bed with a duvet that can be pulled back.

New Experiences

Helping Hands Illustrated by Georgie Birkett and Jess Stockham

Children love to imitate adult behaviour. Helping with real tasks is a natural progression from pretend play, and is a crucial stage in a child's development. Achieving a shared goal encourages a sense of responsibility and develops many skills useful in later life. Encourage your child to help out as they share in the fun of more grown-up activities. Simple conversational text and lively illustrations are carefully designed to initiate dialogue between reader and child.

New Baby

Illustrated by Rachel Fuller

A new addition to the family is exciting, but the experience can also be worrying and confusing for siblings. Coping with the new situations and emotions that arise can be very challenging. This series of four board books deals with the anticipation of waiting for the new baby, the excitement of the arrival itself, and the beginnings of the special relationship between siblings.

The simple conversational text and lively illustrations are carefully designed to encourage dialogue between reader and child and help to prepare them for the downfalls and delights of having a younger brother or sister.

Errol's Garden – Available Summer 2017

Gillian Hibbs

Errol loves gardening, but there isn't enough room in his flat to grow everything that he would like. When he discovers a secret but neglected space at the top of the apartment block, he has a wonderful idea, but to carry it out he'll need some help. Surely the other residents will be too busy to help him realize his dream? Or just not interested enough? In this heart-warming tale of common purpose within a diverse community, Gillian Hibbs illustrates the power of the natural world to inspire and reward humanity within a seemingly inauspicious environment.

My Tail's Not Tired – Available Early Spring 2017

Jana Novotny Hunter, illustrated by Paula Bowles

How can any little monster possibly go to bed when their tail isn't even tired? And when their knees still have plenty of bounce in them? And when their arms still want to fly like a jet plane? Bedtime is surely a long way off! Luckily, Big Monster has a strategy to humour Little Monster, with the inevitable result! A humorous and charming bedtime story that adults and children will love to read – and play out – again and again.

Quiet

Kate Alizadeh

Ssh! Listen. What's that noise? What can we hear when we're really, really quiet? A toddler enjoys the range of sounds they hear as their busy day comes to an end, from the bustle and chat of dinner time, to the quiet hush of their father's voice at bedtime. The text and sensory clues to be found in this enchanting, inclusive picture book allow us to experience our home through its many noises. Auditory landmarks help all children to become familiar with daily routines, and can be particularly important to those who are blind or partially sighted.

Mr Moon wakes up

Jemima Sharpe

Mr Moon isn't the most exciting playmate. He passes out on puzzles, naps during hide-and-seek and sleeps through tea parties! In fact, the only time he's wide awake is in the middle of the night, when he inhabits a surreal garden filled with mythical creatures. Using traditional screen-printing techniques, Jemima Sharpe creates a magical realm reminiscent of the most classic children's tales.

Little Home Bird

Jo Empson

Little Bird loves home. He has everything that he needs to be happy – his favourite branch, his favourite food and his favourite music! He can't imagine living anywhere else. Unfortunately, that's exactly what his brother suggests to him one chilly day in autumn. The thought of leaving all of his precious things behind makes Little Bird miserable, until he comes up with a clever solution. Will he manage to bring everything with him? Will it matter if he doesn't? Perfect for children with more than one home.

Harold finds a voice

Courtney Dicmas

Harold is an amazing mimic, and can imitate the sound of everything in his home. Tired of repeating the same old noises, he yearns to find out what other voices there are in the big, wide world. But what happens when he suddenly realizes that he doesn't have a voice of his own? This fantastic debut by author/illustrator Courtney Dicmas recounts Harold's hilarious tale. It's full of colour, humour and invention, and the onomatopoeic language means children will love to join in with Harold as he mimics everyday noises.

The Great Googly Moogly

Courtney Dicmas

Nobody has ever been able to catch the Great Googly Moogly – a giant and terrifying fish of legend. But Stella aims to do just that. Armed with fishing gear and differing baits, she sets out every day to realize her dream, whatever the weather. But what will she do if she succeeds? Dicmas' spirited protagonist is determined to achieve her goal, but this insightful picture book also reflects our place in the natural world and our responsibilities to other creatures.

The Jar of Happiness

Ailsa Burrows

How do you create happiness? In this story, a child mixes the smell of warm biscuits and the seaside with the taste of chocolate ice cream, apple juice and the warmth of sunshine. She fills a jar and visits her loved ones to share her invention. But one day the jar goes missing. She searches everywhere but cannot find it. As she retraces her footsteps she discovers there are many other ways to share happiness.

That's NOT how you do it!

Ariane Hofmann-Maniyar

Lucy knows how to do everything. She's a gifted gymnast, a prolific painter and she folds paper stars with finesse. If anyone needs to be taught how to do something, they come to Lucy for help. But one day, Toshi arrives. He can do everything that Lucy can do, but in his own way – the wrong way! With an important message about keeping an open mind, this picture book will become an instant favourite.

Ice in the Jungle

Ariane Hofmann-Maniyar

When Ice's mother tells her that they're going to move, Ice isn't so sure. She likes her home and her friends. The journey takes forever and their new home is very strange. The weather, the food, the people and the language are all different. Ice tries to make friends, but everyone seems too busy. Will anything help Ice feel more at home? A charming picture book about the anxieties and hardships of moving, with a heart-warming ending.

Grandma

Jessica Shepherd

Oscar loves Grandma, and their time together is always lots of fun. However, as she becomes less able to look after herself, she has to go into a care home. This touching story, told in Oscar's own words, is a positive and practical tale about an experience now encountered by many children. A factual page about dementia will help readers to talk about their feelings and find new ways to enjoy the changing relationship. Jessica Shepherd's sensitive first picture book has grown out of her experience in a variety of caring roles.

The Boy Who Lost His Bumble

Trudi Esberger

The boy in this debut picture book is fascinated by bees, and is puzzled and saddened when they disappear one rainy day. What can have caused them to leave, and is there anything he can do to get his bumble back? Not one of his antics is successful, but things start to look a little brighter with the arrival of spring. A gentle, quirky introduction to the cycles of nature, with an important and highly topical message about the value of bees to our world.

A child's early years are more important than any other. This is when children learn most about the world around them, and the language skills they need to survive and grow. For more than 40 years, Child's Play has put enormous thought and care into creating exactly the right sort of material for this all-important time.

Child's Play has a history of creating innovative, award-winning books for children that promote learning through play. Vibrant illustrations positively portray children of all cultures, nationalities, gender and abilities, helping children to develop an understanding of our diverse society. Non-stereotypical traditions and values are fostered as a matter of course.

Respected and loved by parents, educationalists, and most importantly, children, the Child's Play programme offers learning, fun and happiness to children from the very earliest age. It provides a wide range of formats and experiences that will enrich and empower every child's life.

Child's Play philosophy

Find out about the Child's Play philosophy and visit our Teacher and Parent Zones on our website. You can download printable activities for our titles, check out the biographies of our authors and illustrators, and even review your favourite book. Our website also contains details of our representatives in the UK and abroad, as well as our backlist and foreign language titles.
